

what has been done by the American naval force was in response to a formal request from the ~~the~~ government of Nicaragua.

Though kindly appreciative of the sentiments inspiring the Nicaraguan government in its offer to bury the dead marines in state in the city of Granada, it is believed that the bodies of the men will be brought home to the United States and buried according to the wishes of their surviving relatives.

The regiment of marines was on both sides of Barranca under command of Col. John H. Pendleton. The first and second battalions were between Mangana and Masaya and nearer Masaya. The third battalion was between Masaya and Granada and also nearer Masaya. So it is impossible to judge in which battalion the fatalities occurred as all were close to the fighting.

The first battalion was under command of Maj. William N. McKeiby and was composed of companies A, B, C and D, drawn from New York, Norfolk, Boston, Portsmouth, Annapolis, Charleston and Washington.

The second battalion, under command of Maj. George C. Reed, was composed of companies E, F and G, drawn from Philadelphia.

The third battalion, under command of Maj. Simeon D. Butler, was drawn from Panama.

From the wording of American Minister Weitzel's dispatch today, telling of the fight, officials here think that bluejackets from some of the warships under Rear Admiral Southwick also were in the fight.

Minister Weitzel's dispatch said the American forces had driven Zebulon and his rebels from the Barranca hills in thirty-seven minutes, but said nothing of Corregor's participation in the battle, mentioned in Charon's cablegram to Minister Castrillo. Mr. Weitzel's dispatch said it was rumored in Managua that American marines had been killed and wounded, but gave nothing definite.

Yesterday's dispatches told of an impending battle at Jinotepa. The Nicaraguan minister's dispatch today said the marines were killed and wounded at Jinotepa and it was first thought they were the same place.

Admiral Southwick's dispatch, dated yesterday, said:

"Barranca and second hill taken by marines and bluejackets at daybreak after a gallant assault. Masaya later taken by government forces and starving inhabitants relieved. Insurrectionist losses were heavy."

EIGHTEEN HURT IN SUNSET TRAIN WRECK

Fast Mail Turns Over in Western Louisiana While Running Thirty Miles an Hour; Several May Die.

[By Leased Wire to Evening Herald]
Lake Charles, La., Oct. 5.—Eighteen persons were more or less seriously hurt when the Sunset Mail, a fast eastbound train of the Southern Pacific railroad, was derailed near Midland, La., early today. Six cars turned over, including the mail car, baggage car, negro coach, two day coaches and a tourist sleeper.

The condition of several of the passengers is critical. Physicians were summoned from Crowley, La., and a relief train took the wreck victims to Lafayette.

Spreading rails caused the wreck, according to the engineer. The train was running thirty miles an hour.

Franciscan Sisters Propose to Establish Orphanage for Boys in Albuquerque; Ask for Site

Institution Urgently Needed in New Mexico May Be Located in This City Provided Necessary Encouragement Is Given Superiors of Noted Charitable Organization; Committee of Order Here to Look Over Available Sites and Believe Albuquerque Is Most Logical Place in the State for the Home.

An announcement was made today that provided sufficient interest is shown and a sufficient amount of money subscribed to purchase a site and assist in the construction of an adequate building, the Franciscan Sisters, a noted caring organization, will establish an orphanage for boys in Albuquerque.

The announcement of the Albuquerquian orphans, provided the proper effort is made, will prove interesting and welcome news to the people of this city and to people throughout the entire state who care for the welfare of orphan boys.

At the present time there is apparently no way to teach orphans how either the Albuquerquian or elsewhere in New Mexico can be cared for, unless they are adopted or given permanent care by institutions outside of the state.

For a number of years many orphan boys in Albuquerque have been sent to various institutions in Colorado, Missouri and elsewhere. For the most part they were sent through the influence of Rev. A. M. Mandalar, S. J., pastor of the Franciscans' conception church, to the Mount of Content's orphanage in Denver. The Denver institution, however, has a greater burden than it can stand in caring for orphans of Colorado and nothing has been said that no more orphans can be accepted of that institution.

Brought face to face with a problem that is a big problem and a serious one, a number of the most prominent men in Albuquerque began negotiations which have been under way for a number of months and which culminated in the announcement that the Evening Herald is authorized to make today.

At the urgent request of the Albuquerquian men, the Franciscan Sisters became interested in the orphanage project and a committee of Sisters was sent to this state to look over the situation. A number of cities in various parts of New Mexico were visited. In one city a sum of $25,000 was offered if assurance would be given that the institution would be located there.

The Franciscans arrived in Albuquerque last Sunday and after carefully investigating the claims of Albuquerque came to the conclusion that this city, because of its location, the possibilities for growth and the fact that it is a business center, is the ideal place for the building of an orphanage.

The Sisters will soon submit to Albuquerque a definite plan as to what they will do with reference to the establishment of the orphanage here. It is known that they will look for a site sufficiently near the city, and an amount of money that will be sufficient to assist in the construction of a building that will be adequate for first needs. Because of the demand for places for orphans through the state it is estimated that there will be an enrollment at the institution of two hundred within a year after the opening day.

Although the orphanage which it is proposed to establish in Albuquerque is conducted by the Franciscan Sisters, the Albuquerquian institution and orphans will be given a home there regardless of creed.

The purposes and reasons for the building of an orphanage for boys in Albuquerque or some other place in New Mexico are briefly outlined as follows by those who are interested in the enterprise:

First. The State of New Mexico has no institution for the care of orphans, either a State or privately supported home.

Second. Boys without parents and proper home surroundings and environment go wrong unless they are properly trained and directed in the proper path.

Third. Orphan institutions which have heretofore cared for New Mexican orphan boys have refused to longer accept boys from this state.

Fourth. To prevent the wrong training of orphan boys who have no home. The purpose of the orphanage would be to train boys to become law-abiding citizens and to take the place for as possible of parents and other near relatives.

Father Mandalar, of this city, who has given the orphanage mother consideration for several years, and who, because of his work among all classes of people in Albuquerque for nearly twenty years knows of the need for such an institution, has aggressively taken up the matter of going after the home for Albuquerque. Father Mandalar has conferred with many prominent business and professional men of the city and has been assured of support provided he will take the initiative in the matter. Archbishop J. B. Pitaval of Santa Fe has assured him that he will personally make a substantial donation for the institution.

It is probable that a meeting of those interested in the enterprise will be held within a week or ten days and that an aggressive campaign to secure the orphanage for Albuquerque will be enthusiastically launched.

the possibilities for growth and the fact that it is a business center, is the ideal place for the building of an orphanage.
